Logotel presents an exhibition designed as an invitation to reflect on the relationship between man and technology. Two wall-climbing robots by Maria Yablonina interact together to build a suspended refuge, inspired by the way spiders spin their webs. "Technology is a prosthesis that envelopes us. Will robots steal our jobs? We need to develop a thought-through idea, a critical approach to technology. At Post-Human we will be showcasing an elaborate research on the subject" say at Logotech.

Capitalism is over! Cascina Cuccagna is a farm in the heart of Milan that survived urbanization retransforming itself into a creative and social hub for creativity with a focus on sustainability. Quite the perfect set for an exhibition celebrating the end of capitalism, design wise!

farewell party exploring the opportunities and weakness of industrial design in time of crisis. On show alternative models that aim to break the designer—> company —> consumer process.
